We acknowledge the Traditional owners of the lands and waters of the region, the Bangerang Peoples of the Yorta Yorta Nations and pay our respects to their elders, past, present and emerging.

I've never been through a flood before ... except to see historic photos in my hometown and go to check the level of water over the low-level bridge. (The big bridge was taken down, and a new one built in my teens.) It was the market garden flood plains which received another layer of alluvial soil as the water moved on to impact the farms and town downstream. Floods were similarly a major talking point in placements I have been since.

This flood is way bigger than a new talking point which can be forgotten about in weeks. We have images in our minds of furniture on footpaths, of racing water beside us as we drove over bridges - if they were open to us. Some people will have more personal memory provokers which will come back at times - smells, mud...the time they go to find a favourite book, or music and realise it is not there anymore.

As we contemplate the impact on the primary producers, the businesses, the homeowners, the residents of this place; may we keep our minds on the vision and mission statements which are pinned on the wall of the foyer or gathering space. I was impressed by these words as I read the profile document. Impressed because they are not just document speak. They are words of the heart, words chosen by a congregation which wants to live God's mission for them. They impressed me enough I want to be here with you, to walk with you on this journey.

This induction day is the starting of times when you might guide me in my ministry, times when I might guide you, and times we walk hand in hand as together we seek God's guidance to be the people who spread the values of God's Kingdom by word and deed to all.

My God bless us to be an identifiable people of worship and gathering which can meet people where they are, and who they are, in gracious, generous and responsible ways.

Kerrie

THE CHURCH AS SALT Rev Dr Sally Douglas

A day of gathering, wondering, exploring and praying together. With Sally we will engage with the image of the Church as salt. We will seek to better understand where the church is in this cultural moment and investigate what the church might be called to do and be. Through themes including salty tears, salty wombs, salt that preserves and salt that seasons, we will dive deeply into the Bible, the early church and our own contexts. Bring your questions and let's wrestle with these things together.

Sally's book, The Church as Salt, will be for sale at the workshop.

Lunch will be served by Shepparton Catering Group - $10
